Advisory: 040 (Philippines)

Advisory Type: Super Typhoon Approaches
The Philippines from the east

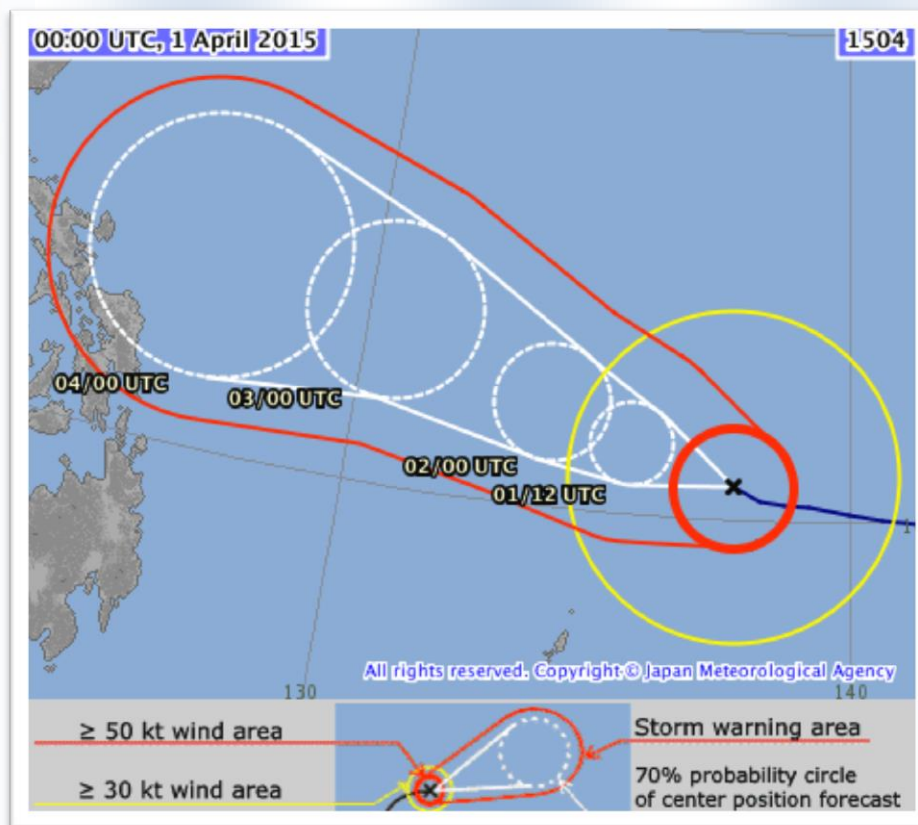

Date: 01/04/2015
Information Source: Allmode

WEATHER WARNING!

The Philippines Met Office have warned that a Super Typhoon, named Maysak, a possibly a category 5, will hit the Philippines east coast within the next three days. Expert predict that this will decrease to a possible category 2, once it hits land.

However, this is still Typhoon strength and will bring winds of up to 110 m.p.h., which could cause structural damage in areas.

This will coincide with the Easter Weekend and may catch tourists off guard.
